

AZZORO

Festuca arundinacea

Breeded for visual merit

Visual merit is often the drawback of tall fescue. We dedicated our research to improve the finesse of leave and the density. AZZORO is the result of that work leading to be the N°1 for visual merit on the French difficult list. A special attention has been put on AZZORO for the winter color, staying green the whole season.

Very good drought tolerance

Tall fescue is well-known to be the most drought tolerant cool season grasses. This behavior has been improved on AZZORO making it one of the most drought tolerant variety. Thanks to its long deep root system, AZZORO is able to uptake water on the deeper layers of the soil.

A versatile use

Due to its good wear tolerance AZZORO can be used on sport fields or on areas which is wear often. It can also be used on areas where visual merit is required.
